

Activation Guide As an end user

Trial

As an end user you can request a trial license via the website. You will receive an OneTimeCode (in the following named OTC) key by email, which you then activate within the AMES interface via the following URL: <https://ames.avira.com/otc>

Please note that to activate this license you need not login.

The screenshot shows the Avira Managed Email Security website interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the Avira logo, the text 'Managed Email Security', a language selector set to 'English', and a user status indicator 'Not logged in'. Below the navigation bar, there is a breadcrumb trail '> Welcome' and a sub-header 'Add license (OTC)'. The main content area is titled 'Enter your license key (OTC)' and contains a text box for the license key. Below the text box is a table with two columns: 'Item' and 'Value'. The table has one row with 'License key (OTC)' in the 'Item' column and an empty text input field in the 'Value' column. At the bottom of the form, there are two buttons: 'Validate' and 'Cancel'.

Upon validation of your OTC key, you will be asked to fill out a form with all relevant information for creating an AMES domain.

Please note that after successfully submitting the form, the log-in dates for AMES will be sent to the email address specified in the form.

Commercial license

For activating a commercial license you can follow the same process as for a trial license. The only difference is that for a commercial license, the OTC key will be created by an Avira representative, or by one of its partners or distributors. For your convenience, the sales representative will already have entered all known information, leaving only a few empty boxes for you to fill out.
